Challenges of our time

by Ueli Hurter

What is the mission of agriculture today?

Break-out Session, approx. 10 min

Question: What is my engagement for the mission of agriculture ?

Biodynamics

by Jean-Michel Florin

Nature's nature – minerals, plants, animals, human being

« Organically speaking, the plant is in all respects an inverse of the animal — a true inverse. The excretion of air and warmth has for the plant the same importance as the consumption of food for the animal. In the same sense in which the animal lives by absorption of food, the plant lives by excretion of air and warmth. This, I would say, is the virginal quality of the plant. By nature, it does not want to consume things greedily for itself, but, on the contrary, it gives away what the animal takes from the world, and lives thereby. Thus the plant gives, and lives by giving. »
