⇒ Biodynamic Advisors (Holzhaus):

Strengthening the global network and building local advisory capacity are essential for the movement's continuous growth. Central to the exchange will be a presentation and discussion with colleagues on the new improvements to the peer-review platform, including changes to the advisory recognition scheme, networking opportunities, and capacity-building activities. With Paz Bernaschina, Hans Supenkämper

⇒ Biodynamic Trainers (Holzhaus Atelier):

How does it feel to be part of a network? Why do we need networks? What difference is there between a local and a global network? When we come together for a morning of work with trainers from all over the world, everyone brings their own individual networking experiences and needs. The meeting focuses on the question of what a global biodynamic network means for the individual, how one can benefit from it, and what one can contribute to it. It is up to us to build a framework, to define our terms of collaboration and make this perspective a reality, so that a global network becomes a valuable source of support for experienced and new trainers. In the afternoon, the ideas developed in the morning can be further developed in small groups led by Simone Helmle. With Simone Helmle, Sarah Sommer

⇒ Biodynamic Researchers (Nordsaal):

This meeting is the next opportunity for people involved or interested in biodynamic research to come together. In the meeting, we want to exchange about news on recent biodynamic research activities (new results and publications, new initiatives and projects,...) and explore our virtual platform, the 'Biodynamic Network', as a tool for communication and collaboration. Further, we will get a recap of the 3rd International Biodynamic Research Conference that took place in Cirencester (UK) in late Summer 2025, including highlights from the keynotes.
